DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 62- 67, drawn to a method for detecting intracellular integrase activity using a promoterless reporter gene.

Group II, claim(s) 68- 73, drawn to a method for detecting intracellular integrase activity using a promoterless reporter gene requiring the use of a synthetic retroviral gag or pol gene having modified codons as compared to wildtype and providing a detectable level of activity of wildtype function.

Group III, claim(s) 74, drawn to an integrase inhibitor.

Group IV, claim(s) 75- 80, drawn to a packaging construct for a lentiviral or other complex retroviral vector based on a synthetic retroviral pol or gag gene.

Group V, claim(s) 81- 82, drawn to a method to determine preferred codons and construction of a synthetic gene.

Group VI, claim(s) 83- 88, drawn to a synthetic gene or portion of a gag or pol gene.

Group VII, claim(s) 89, drawn to a method to transfect a eukaryotic cell.

Group VIII, claim(s) 90, drawn to a eukaryotic cell line or transgenic animal harbouring a synthetic gag or pol gene.

Group IX, claim(s) 91 and 92, drawn to a method for gene transfer into a eukaryotic cell expressing a synthetic gag or pol gene.

The inventions listed as Groups I- IX do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

Group I is directed to a method for detecting intracellular integrase activity using a promoterless reporter gene, which is the first method. However, because Katz (Cell 1990, from IDS) discloses the same method (a method to detect integrase activity using an antibiotic resistance gene as a reporter to detect integration of donor DNA into a target by screening for antibiotic resistance), no special technical feature exists for Group I as defined by PCT Rule 13.2, because it does not define a contribution over the prior art. The technical features of Groups II-IX are drawn to methods having different goals, method steps and starting materials and products that are not required for the practice of group I, which do not require each other for their practice and do not share the same or a corresponding technical feature. Note that PCT Rule 13 does not provide for multiple products or methods within a single application. Because the technical feature of Group I is not a special technical feature, and because the technical features of the Group II-IX inventions are not present in the Group I claims, unity of invention is lacking. Group I does not require an integase inhibitor, a packaging construct, or synthetic gene(s).

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is advised that a rejoinder of claims is possible at a later date if the product is eventually found patentable. Guidance on treatment of product and process claims in light of In re Ochiai, In re Brouwer and 35 U.S.C. §103(b) is set forth in the Commissioner's Notice of February 28, 1996 published on March 26, 1996 at 1184 O.G. 86.

To facilitate examination under § 103, where product and process claims are presented in the same application, applicant may be called upon under 35 U.S.C. § 121 to elect claims to either the product or process. The claims to the non-elected invention will be withdrawn from further consideration. However, in the case of an elected product claim, rejoinder will be permitted when a product claim is found allowable and the withdrawn process claim depends from or otherwise includes all the limitations of an allowed product claim. Withdrawn process claims not commensurate in scope with an allowed product claim will not be rejoined. In the event of rejoinder, the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104 - 1.106. If the application containing the rejoined claims is not in condition for allowance, the subsequent Office action may be made final, or, if the application was already under final rejection, the next Office action may be an advisory action.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
